THE LITTLE BROWN STOCKING.

Here is a little brown stocking,
Faded by many years,
Hidden among my treasures,
Stained with many tears;
It hung in a chimney corner,
On a Uhristmas long ago.
Loaded with precious goodies,
Full from top to toe.

Two chubby hands unloaded
The gifts of Santa Claus;
Oh, how his black eyes sparkled!—
And shurely there was cause.
You see that little hole there?
There's where a horse was tied—
So heavy that it tore it,
And big enough to ride.

No soldier was ever prouder
With war-horse most superb,
Than he on his rocking pony,
With saddle, whip and curb.
Oh, that was the merriest Christmas,
And he the jolliest boy,
And this is the sweetest memory
I ever shall enjoy!

The red leaves of the autumn
Lie dead above him now;
The prattling lips are silent,
His hands are cold as snow.
Naught but the little stocking
Is left of that glad day;
The stocking and the memory
Are mine to keep always.

Knives are often stained by fruit or vinegar. The stains can be removed by rubbing them with a piece of raw potato before they are cleaned on the board.

To clean a metal teapot put it into a solution of common soda boiling hot; let it stand twelve hours near the fire then pour it away, and wipe with a clean cloth.

TO-MORROW.

This world with all its power and pride;
Is but a vaile of sorrow,
To-day, perhaps, in pomp we ride
Above ambitions seething tide;
Who knows aught of to-morrow?

A day can call forth many things,
And all does from the future borrow,
To-day may show the power of kings,
But who will prune time's fleeting wings;
Or say what comes to-morrow?

To-day the victor flaunts the wreath
And deems the earth too morrow,
Diseases, perhaps, may stop the breath,
No hand can stay old time, and death,
Perhaps, twill come to-morrow,

To-day is then the given day,
For death's unerring arrow
May turn the proudest into clay,
And who could for salvation pray,
If death should come to-morrow?

Then leave the worldly thoughts awhile.
'Tis better to possess than borrow,
To-day might free us from all guile,
And heaven's reconciling smile
May give us joy to-morrow.

To make plate look like new, take of unslacked lime and alum a pound of each, of aqua fitic and vinegar each a pint, and of beer grounds two quarts; boil the plate in these ingredients, and it will receive a beautiful polish from them.

There is less waste in poultry than in most kinks of meat, so that it is as economical to buy them as meat.

A LOST OPPORTUNITY.

Ex-Gov. Holden was near being canonized on the rolls of martyrdom. Never was there a man in our history who turned his bad deeds to such good account, and made profit of the crisis that met him in his official head. Never was there a man to whom set so powerful a current of party sympathy. Even the punishment visited upon him by an outraged people for the violation of their most sacred rights, as time had rolled on, began to arouse commiseration, as if justice had been more than satisfied and offended law had had more than its vindication. Tenderness took the place of resentment. And because there had been a marked external change in the conduct of the notorious ex-official, and because it was believed that better influences had purified his own heart, and dispelled the cherished sentiment of revenge which naturally enough he might have entertained, there were many who thought that as the law had been satisfied in the letter, its spirit might be equally satisfied by mitigation of the penalties and reveral of its sentence.

That effort failed, not from party feeling, but because that stern spirit which had met and overthrown domestic tyranny was above the reach of sentimentalism. It meant that its decrees should be irreversible, that no future imitation of Gov. Holden might rely upon that facility of temper of polley which shapes itself to the fluctuations of popular caprice. And so the judgment of the Court of Impeachment stands, some of his own party friends voting in Convention against the removal of his disabilities, as others of them did in the Court of Impeachment for his conviction.

And now ex-Gov. Holden shows by his letter that he was unworthy of the effort to believe him. He shows that he was rightly deposed from his office, because, now, in the full light of experience, and with a perfect sense, that as the passions of the past have greatly subsided, and the principles of constitutional law again assert themselves, his acts as Governor could only find palliation under the influences of the hour. He defends his acts and stubbornly asserts that he acted under the authority of the Constitution and the law. Time had not changed his views, and evidently these other influences have not softened his heart. His cry is for vengeance. The punishment meted out to him, he calls down upon others. The miseries he has drawn upon himself, he will have perpetuated upon his native land. Peace and harmony for the nation he would destroy, because he disqualified himself for their equal enjoyment.

His friends will regret that he has put himself in a position so unlooked for from his deportment for the last few years. Those he chooses to call his enemies are now more than ever convinced, not only of the justice, but the necessity of repressing a man who uses the last strength of the liberty that is left him to expend it upon the destruction of that peace which might be considered nearly secured. And he will now go down with the consciousness that he has unveiled his true character, and will sink without an arm stretched out him to save. —Rel. News.

A SCENE IN CONGRESS.

The last issue of the Albermarle Times contains an interesting letter from its editor now in Washington City, descriptive of the scenes that occured during the recent debate in the House of Representatives on the Amnesty Rill.

Refering to the point of time when Mr. Blaine charged Ex-President Davis with being a willful murderer the letter says:

"The excitement in the House at this point was entense but it grew to

when the Ex-speaker said: And I here before God; measuring my words, knowing their full extent and import, declare that neither the deeds of the Duke of Alva in the Low Countries, nor the massacre of Saint Bartholomew, nor the thum-screws and eagines of torture of the Spanish Inquisition begin to compare in atrocity with the hiddeous crime of Andersonville.

In an instant Mr. Wm. M Robbins of North Carolina sprang to his feet and with powerful emphasis sent ringing through the chamber the reply, "That is an infamous slander." The effect was electricity The hall rang with applause, and the baffled range of the man who is seeking to walk into the Presidency over bleeding hearts was indescribable. Blaine turned white and blue and all sorts of colors, for he had at last met a man who in mental powers in his equal and in honesty of purpose and physical courage, his superior.'

A lady remarked to a popular divine that his sermons were a little too long. "Don't you think so?" said she—"just a little?" Ah! dear madame.' replied the divine, "I am afraid you don't like the sincere milk of the Word.' 'Yes, I do,' said she; 'but you know the fashion, nowadays, is condensed milk.'

A LESSION FOR GIRLS.

China is making a contribution to female literature. A volume has recently been published there called "A Book for Girls.' It is written in verses and contains advice and suggestions to women from the time tney are born until they become grandmothers. Every line is characteristic of the position occupied by women in China. Nothing is said as to intellectual development, and the duty of complete submission to the wills of their masculine relatives of every grade is constantly impressed upon them. The book opens with suggestions concerning early rising, suitable morning toilettes, and proper female occupations. Then follow warnings against idleness and foolish conversation. "A maiden must learn to guard her tongue.' For each year of her life there is a particular lesson, "At seven years to imitate those who are grown up. At eight and nine, love your elder and younger brothers and sisters, divide your food with them, and do not be angry or jealous if your share is less than theirs. At ten be industrious, learn from your mother, and do not leave the house without permission. At eleven years you are grown—attend to making the tea, cooking the rice, and fill up your leisure time with knitting.' Then follow directions regarding the great aim of existence—marriage. To the obedience exercised toward parents and relatives shall be added submission to a husband. After this come practical and economical rules about cooking and cleanliness. Humility is enjoyed. "The husband is to the wise as heaven is to earth. Your feet are bound so that you shall not leave the house and wonder foolishly about in search of vain amusement.' Then come suggestions to young mothers, rules for walking, resting, sitting and sleeping. 'When thy daughters are grown, see that they marry well, and are obedient to their husbands and submissive to his relatives.' With such views in regard to the education of women, a glimpse of the positions they occupy in other countries might well astonish the inhabitants of the Celestial empire.

A NOBLE EXAMPLE.

According to the Savannah (Ga.) News, a very unusual scene occurred in the supreme court, at that city. Upon the opening of the court, after, the usual preliminaries, Colonel Albert R. Ramar, the solicitor general, arose and said:

May it please the court: Before the grand jury retires I desire, in my place and as the first officer of this court, to make the following statement: As I left the court room during a recess, I was assaulted on account of official action by Philip M. Russell, Jr. Isaac Russel, Waring Russell, Jr; Wariug Russell, Sr; R. Wayne Russell, Philip M. Russell, Sr; and Thomas J. Sheftall I was followed by these parties from the court-room and accosted on the street just at the court house door. I was abused by Philip M. Russell, Jr; in the most opprobrious terms, and struck in the face by the same man, while the rest stood around with their hands upon their arms. If I had attempted to use the privilege that law accorded me on this occasion I had not been here now to make this statement to the court,—If I had yielded to impluses of a man and of the moment I would not now be here. If the premeditated attempt to assassinate me had been successful it would have been only accomplished in order that crime and criminals might go unwhipped of justice If I had yielded to the impulses of a man I would have been arraigned at the bar of this court for the violation of that law which I have solemnly sworn to maintain and uphold. I have determined, if your honor please, at my own instance, and by the advice of wiser and cooler heads than my own, to ask that the majesty of the law be vindicated in its officer rather than that an officer of the law should attempt to vindicate the sanctity of his own person.

The grand jury being promptly charged found indictments against the Russells, and they were all held for trial.

GIVE IT TO THEM WARM.

Here is an anecdote told me by one minister about another:

"A certain Presiding Elder, who was noted for being seldom up to time, seldom very animated, and seldom very brief, once kept a congregation waiting a long time for his appearance, and when at last he had come he preached them a very prosy sermon of unusual length on the text, 'Feed my lambs'?

"He had not yet finished when that original old minister, known as 'Camp-meeting John," rose from a seat in the congregation and said—'Brother, I have had some expeiience in raising lambs myself, and I have found that the following rules are absolutely essential to successful lamb-raising: First give them food in season; second give them a little at a time; and third, give it to them warm.'

Every bird refreshes us with its lay—especially the hen.

DO CLIMATES CHANGE.

Our people complain that the seasons are warmer, colder, or more rainy than when they were young.

Their comments are ridiculed because most persons believe that no very great marked changes have or ever will take place in a section of country where stability in nature is a settled fact—that is, it snows in Winter, showers in April, and the trees have leaves in the Spring.

Atmospheric alteration is certainly going on from age to age, more strongly evident in some parts of a country than in others.

Here are illustrations. Two thousand years ago the climate of Italy was far colder than now. The Loire and Thone, in ancient Gaul, used to freeze over annually. Juvenal says the Tiber froze so firmly in his day the ice had to be cut to get at the water. Horace indicates the presence of ice and snow in the streets of Rome and Ovid inserts the Black Sea froze every year.

So extreme was the cold at that far off period in history, it stands chronicled by the ancients that in Gaul, Germany, Pannonia, Thrace snow positively covered the ground so long as to prevent the cultivation of olives, grapes and other fruits which are raised there at the present time in abundance. Ice or snow to any considerable amount would now be a phenomenon in Italy.

HOME ENTERPRISE.—Do you know what home enterprise is? It means simply this: If you can do anything to beautify or build up your village, go to work and do it at once; don't fight the laying down of a sidewalk, because it will cost a few dollars, for every dollar so expended will increase the value of your property so much more, invest your surplus capital in home industries; patronize your own merchants and help them to sell more goods so they can sell cheaper; and always get your work done in your own town if possible. If you follow these suggestions, you may rest assured that your town will improve and grow far beyond your expectations.'

Light at last.

WHAT THE PEOPLE OUGHT TO DO.

Every one connected with the press has heard the sentiment 'I am tired of politics; I don't want to have anything to do with them,' so often uttered. And that by intelligent men, that he feels no surprise that a his interest in it has become in indifferent or so repugnant to others. And he ought not to feel surprise if he reflects upon the commonly accepted views of politics, upon their conduct and upon their ascribed consequences. For politics and be commonly regarded by peaceful men as the Pandora's box out of which all the evils of the country have sprung; wars, and sectional strife, and personal discusion, and the unhappy divisions of communities. From these things do come out of politics. They are inseparable from free institutions, where men have diversity of thought and freedom to express it.

These consequences are, however, better than that unbroken turbulent of quiet which proceeds from despotism, where the strong arm of power almost suppresses thought, certainly does stifle voice, and is only broken occasionally by a sudden volcanic explosion which involves everything in ruin. Universal destruction in such cases is preferable to intolerable tyrranny. The commotions in a free country is, the other hand, like thunder storms are open in their movements, not always to be guarded against, sometimes destructive in their fury, but leaving the atmosphere purified of matter that are impregnable by gentle explyrs.

We have not however condemned an indifference to political matters, when in the discussion or in the pursuit of them there was so much to create the impression that selfish purposes and individual aims were at the bottom of so much zeal, and that the peace or welfare of a country was often sacrificed that individual or party interests might prosper. Nor was there anything attractive in politics where personal animosities were the moving springs of action, and where the press was so often disgraced, and the proprieties of public discussion so often degraded by personal abuse and fierce recrimination. If this were all of politics, then the people might justly turn from them in disgust, and forswear all connection with them.

But this is not all of politics, only a part, and a very discreditable part. Politics take a very wide and very comprehensive range embracing every subject in which the peace and the prosperity of a state or a nation is involved. Government cannot be left to run by itself. It is not a machine, once set in motion, to go on by its own initial movement. It requires constant watch lest its works get out of order, lose their equilibrium, run too fast, and wind up with sudden crash; or else become rusted, and become sluggish and dull. This machinery demands constant watching; and this machinery is the public men the people select as their servants. There is much human nature in this machinery. It would not be human nature for them to abstain from the advantage position gives them over the public treasure, or over the fortunes of the party they happen to represent. Out of this amiable weakness to serve their own private or party, grow the measures which call so often for the rebuke of the people, ever-loaded with taxation, goaded by oppression, or ruined by unwise or indiscreet or vicious measures of finance. Or unjust and unequal laws are enacted, and grievous penalties enforced; or extravagance, and waste and dishonesty mark the measures of an administration. The remedy for these things is in the action of the people themselves, and their right to act, and their actions constitute the very essence of politics.

Politics cannot be avoided, therefore, if the people will maintain their liberties, their rights, their property and their prosperity. If they abstain from the exercise of their right to correct the evils under which they suffer, from the squeamish idea that it is disagreeable to mix in politics, then they tempt the troubles of which they complain. They present themselves, bound hand and foot willing slaves to the despotisms they so meanly invite. Men, who reflect a moment, will not shun what is both a duty and a right merely because regard to it is attended with some discomforts or even things that are actually disagreeable. Politics must be attended to as essential to the health or safety of the body politic, else will oppression increase, corruption grow, taxation eat their substance, paralysis settle upon their industries.

And at no time is interest in politics, more demanded than now, when an administration of fifteen years standing, grown insolent by long possession of power, is using the weapons it has garnered up in its long experience to gain a yet longer hold upon its possession. Do not the people feel that their daily business; in heavy taxes, in ruined trade, in the gloomy outlook of business? Do they not know that the evil is political, and that nothing less than their energetic action in politics, and every man must take his active part. Read, study, talk, discuss, act, work—all of which must be done before relief is obtained. Politics are a living reality, and they press. They cannot be avoided with wisdom or with safety.

CONGRESS.

The Centennial bill, appropriating $1,500,000 on the part of the government to aid in carrying out the plans of the undertaking, passed the House last week by a vote of 146 to 100. Of the North Carolina delegation, Robbins, Waddell and Hyman voted for it, and Messrs. Ashe, Davis, Scales, Vance and Yeates against it. The opposition to the bill was partly on Constitution grounds, the question being raised and argued whether Congress had the right to vote away the peoples money for a purely sentimental object; and much opposition was also aroused by the demonstration of unbrotherly feeling betrayed in the discussion on the Amnesty bill totally at variance with the idea of a national jubilee, on the foundation of universal harmony. Therefore the majority for the bill was smaller than its friends expected and certainly smaller than if the amnesty discussion had not taken so unfortunate a turn.

Little else of general public interest has been acted upon, definitely or by Congress in its Legislative character. But much matter for discussion has been reported upon by Committees. Among these are the cutting down of diplomatic Salaries by which many thousands are saved, also a report recommending a reduction of the pay of members of Congress from five thousand to four thousand dollars a year, and the reduction of pay to Clerks &c., which, altogether will affect a saving of half a million. The work of retrenchment has begun.

The Southern Pacific Rail Road bill is exciting much interest and discussion before the Committee on Rail Roads attract as much attention as the proceedings of Congress itself. This measure is of immense importance to the whole South if directed of the controlling influence of Tom Scott, the Pennsylvania Rail Road King. If it is built as a Southern Road with its terminous in the South then every Southern State will be benefitted, because our system of rail roads would be part and parcel of the great trans-continental route, and North Carolina would share with the rest.

Advices from China state that the Chinese are meditating hostilities against the English, and an outbreak may be expected at any time. This is greatly to be deplored. The Chinese have never been fully reconciled to their enforced presence in the family of nations. They have a civilization of their own, very different from the European standard. They boast their own superiority, and though in the opium war in 1843, and once subsequently, the British enforced at the cannon's mouth entry into their ports, and secured by treaty access for the ships of all nations to commercial cities before closed to foreign ships, the Chinese have never loved their old enemies. And the treatment of Chinese emigrants in Australia and in California have not increased their love or respect for Christian nations. They are willing at any time to return to their exclusiveness. They are not dependent upon foreign trade for their prosperity. They take little else from Europe or America but their silver coin. They do not want, much less need, the manufactures of the 'outside barbarians.' They can live and flourish without us.

Perhaps, they are better able to defend themselves than they were when last attacked. They are brave, and they are numerous, and since their former discomfitures, they have been actively and intelligently adopting all the improved methods of modern warfare, under foreign instructions. They make a good fight, and if they do, they will then shut themselves as hermetically as war Japan from the beginning of the 17th century until the bars were broken by Commodore Perry in 1854. China can do better without us than we without them, and European and American habits would receive a shock by the sudden closing of the source of supply from which luxuries, now grown into necessities, are drawn. Let us hope China will keep the peace.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 28.

The serious steady work of the Session has commenced. Various [illegible] tion bills are reported and [illegible] is working hard on [illegible] is the order of the day. The democrats, while they do not intend to cripple the administration of law by refusing sufficient money, will show that an immense amount is useless expended. The salaries of all the clerks and officials, who receive over $1,200 in Washington as well as elsewhere, will be reduced ten per cent. This alone will effect a saving of millions. The republicans can make no fight against these reductions for [illegible] is piling up proofs that the allowances made are amply sufficient to make every department of the Government perfectly efficient. These appropriation bills, connected with the one reported by Mr. Garfield and passed by the republican majorities of the past years, will be the most effective denunciation of the last campaign. They will show that the republican party has been taking every year millions of dollars from the toiling and overtaxed taxpayers of the country to enrich favorites and that the democrats propose to run the Government economically as an

RETRENCHMENT

INVESTIGATION

is the next most important subject before the House. Rottenness and abuse of public trusts of every character, have been committed for years, and if the officials have not actually shared the money stolen from the people (as was the case in the whiskey frauds, they have at least rendered the offences, and winked at the robberies. Already the heads of the departments are becoming exceedingly nervous and are seeking men to sacrifice as victims. Third Auditor Rutherford and Comptroller Brodhead were the first and most important who have yet fallen; like Tom Murphy and Delano, they obtained certificates of whitewash from President Grant, but the value of these documents has been reduced by their indiscriminate use. It is suggested that should Babcock be convicted he have his framed as an ornament for his penitentiary cell.

ANOTHER JOB.

The Senate effectually smothered Senator Davis' attempt to examine into the intricacies of Treasury bookkeeping, by referring his resolution to the Committee on Finance, where it will remain, and the only hope of unravelling this tangled skein is for some Member of the House to take up the thread that has been snatched from Senator Davis, and have the investigation ordered by the House. The republican policy on these subjects is well understood; but if the democratic majority is well handled such a mass of corruption will be unearthed and displayed to the public gaze, but the people will turn from its authors and abettors with disgust.

CHEAP TRANSPORTATION.

General Hurlburt has introduced a bill in the House for the construction of a government railway, which embodies the leading features of the Belgian plan. The road proposed is to be built from New York, with a double track, to Chicago, St. Louis, and Council Bluffs, and to be used entirely for freight. The plan for building is to have Government guarantee interest at $12,000 per mile, for which a mortgage is to be given to the United States. The United States is to own the mortgage, and is also to guarantee interest on 2,000 miles of construction bonds, for which a mortgage is to be given of the entire equipment. The balance of the money, $50,000 a mile, is to be raised by construction bonds or stock certificates. There are to be no stockholders. Five commissioners are to be appointed by the Government, who are to have control of the stock and bonds. The plan is to pay all stock certificates within the life of the bonds, and to leave the railroad at the end of thirty years absolutely free in the hands of the Government. There are some excellent features in this bill, and it might prove the solution of that vexed problem "Cheap Transportation." Tom Scott is also here, asking that the Government guarantee the interest on $85,000,000 of the five per cent. bonds of the Texas and Pacific road, to enable him to complete that grand enterprise at once, and break down the monopoly of the Union and Central Pacific. Colonel Huntington, of the latter road, is on hand with a strong lobby to defeat Scott's bill and maintain the monopoly. Scott has discarded the lobby, and is personally pressing his scheme upon its merits. The arguments he had made before the committees of both Houses are very convincing. The Virginia and the Tennessee, and Georgia canal projects do not meet with much favor, while the improvement of the Mississippi is cordially endorsed.

PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES.

It is generally conceded, that the coarse and dictatorial manner of the New York World has injured Governor Tilden's chances for the Democratic nomination; and because of his location in New York, is unquestionably the strongest of the hard money Democrats. Here the common talk is that the finance question must either be disposed of in Congress, before the convention meets, or left open in the platform, in which latter event, Governor Hendricks, of Indiana, is the almost certain nominee. A sensation has been created among the Republicans by the letter of Senator Sherman to State Senator Borns, of Ohio, in which Sherman nominates Governor Hayes, of Ohio, on Morton's bloody shirt platform, slightly modified. Sherman says very significantly "that the third term question is closed," and that a renomination of President Grant would be an "act of suicide." The letter is strong and ingenious, and many is supposed to have been written after a consultation with several leading Republicans, with a view of showing President Grant the folly of his aspirations, as well as to head off Morton, who is looked upon as an impracticable candidate.

Winter.

Cold again, after another week of summer weather. A little snow Monday morning with a prospect of a fall of it.

"Long cut" smoking, and not "short cut" chewing we ought to have named last week in speaking of H. P. Jones & co's operations.

J. Y. Whitted has associated with him Messrs. Merrick and Bynum in the manufacture of chewing tobacco. The factory will employ fifty or more hands. The two gentlemen named will remove to Hillsboro with their families, making a pleasant addition to our population.

We acknowledge the attention of the Hon. J. J. Davis in transmitting to us interesting congressional documents.

The change of gauge has been effected on the Atlantic road, and trains now run through to Morehead City without transfer at Goldsboro.

The Milton Chronicle and the Milton Mercury are both expected to appear this week. The former is supplied with new press and type.

See our Washington letter, which we shall present each week.

Don't forget the Big Tobacco Break at Pogue and Co's Warehouse on the 8th and 9th, inst. There will be upwards of fifty thousand pounds sold. The Warehouse is A No. 1.

The Danville Times expresses its pleasure that the Grangers are interesting themselves to build up the tobacco market of Danville. Will not the Grangers nearer home do the same for Hillsboro?

Mrs. M. C. Beasley of Charlotte proposes to open a boarding House in Philadelphia during the Centennial exclusively for North Carolina guests, for two dollars a day. This is an inviting arrangement and no doubt many will adopt it.

The fare to the Centennial on the rail roads will be very low, and board by Mrs. Beasley's proposition being reduced, no doubt many will go who had been frightened off by the prospect of the expense of the trip.

Maj. F. H. Cameron, Vice President of the North Carolina Home Insurance Co. is at present on a visit to Hillsboro.

Mr. Robert Kirkland, a native of this town, but for a number of years a resident of the State of Uruguay, South America, has arrived at Key West on the U. S. Steamer Nipsic, and may soon be expected here on a visit to his friends.

The Military Academy under the charge of Mr. R. H. Graves is in successful operation. We hope it will fall behind none other in point of numbers.

A MIXED PARTY.

Recently in Wilmington the colored people with their usual passion for imitation gave a "Martha Washington" party, the venerable dame of historic fame being personated by the robust cook of a well known citizen. There was in the getting up of the characters, some faint glimmering of fealty to the military families but the managers being more familiar with the elucidation of scripture than of American History introduced Judas Iscariot as the representative of Benedict Arnold!

Oh, no! Martha Washington and Judas Iscariot!

The Danville Times says there is a perfect glut in the tobacco market, the planters availing themselves of the suitable condition for handling tobacco for bringing it to market. Prices were well maintained. The trouble was in the great number of sales at the same time. Suppose the planters try Hillsboro, where they will get good prices and not be so much crowded. Try the market particularly on the 8th and 9th.

REMEMBER THIS.

Now is the time of the year for Pneumonia, Lung Fever, Coughs, Colds, and fatal results of predisposition to consumption and other Throat and Lung Disease. BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP has been used in this neighborhood for the past two or three years without a single failure to cure. If you have not used this medicine yourself, go to your Druggist, Dr. O. Hooker and ask him of its wonderful success among his customers. Two doses will relieve the worst case. If you have no faith in any medicine, just buy a Sample Bottle of Boschee's German Syrup for 10 cents and try it. Regular size Bottle 75 cents. Don't neglect a cough to save 75 cents.

The Durham Tobacco Plant says that a difficulty occurred between T. G. Cozart and G. A. Reams, last Friday evening, in the course of which Reams received a severe wound over his left eye. He was knocked senseless and knew nothing for some hours. It was at first thought his skull was broken but upon examination that was found to be a mistake.

DREADFUL TRAGEDY AT HAW RIVER.

SLAYING OF ADOLPHUS G. MOORE.

On Tuesday evening last, Adolphus G. Moore, of the firm of Holt and Moore was shot by George W. Swepson from the effect of which he died on Thursday evening about 6 o'clock.

All accounts agree as to the main facts, that Mr. Moore was going shooting with two lads as companions. Their way led by G. W. Swepson's house. An altercation between Mr. Moore and a negro man in the road near Mr. Swepson's house, which attracted the attention of Mr. S. who came out. What passed between them which led to the shooting is not at the time of writing, made clear. But it appears that Swepson stepped out on a porch with a gun or rifle in his hand and said to Moore, "are you ready?" The latter replied. "Yes, I am ready but will have nothing to do with you in your yard. If you want to shoot, come out into the big road and I will shoot with you." Swepson fired and missed. He is then said to have gone into his house and fired either from a door or a window, the ball passing through a plank in the fence, thence into the left shoulder of Mr. Moore and into the body lodging in the spine. He lay on the ground until assistance came from the factory six or seven hundred yards distant, when he was removed to his house, where he lingered until his death.

Mr. Swepson is said to have sent a messenger to the Sheriff at Graham to notify him of the deed. The Sheriff came immediately and took Mr. S. into custody, but not committing him to jail. The examination began on Wednesday before S. A. White Chairman, Gaston D. Cobb, and T. J. Turner, Magistrates of Alamance, but was not concluded at the time of this writing. The Magistrates went to Haw River on Thursday to take the dying declarations of Mr. Moore, but his strength was too far spent to make them.

Mr. Swepson is represented in the trial by Messrs. Thomas Ruffin, R. Y. McAden, Thomas Fuller, G. F. Bason, and J. M. Boyd; and the State by Messrs. J. A. Graham, J. A. Gilmer, and ——Dillard.

Of course the tragedy has excited immense interest, the parties both being well known throughout the State. In the absence of positive testimony we refrain here from making any comment upon it.

The examination began on Thursday, was resumed on Monday afternoon, with what result we do not know at the time of going to press. Mr. Moore was buried at Graham on Saturday afternoon.

STATE NEWS.

Mr. Thos. M. Brown will soon open a first class hotel in Wadesboro.

The Asheville Citizen has converted itself into an eight page form, and is very much improved.

Ike Young has filed his bond as Collector of the Fourth District, and will take charge of the new district on the 31st inst.

Chas. Buchanan, a Mitchell county kuklux, has been pardoned out of the Albany penitentiary and is now at home.

Another big tobacco factory is to be built in Salisbury, this one to be occupied by Messrs. Boon & Paine, of Davie. The tobacco interests seem to be looking up over there.

The Torch-Light says: Last week young Augustus Hall was shot through the leg by a pistol ball. He accidently caused the pistol to fall from a trunk, which caused it to explode. He is doing well and will no doubt be able to go about as usual in a few days. Mind how you fool with shooting-irons.

The Wilmington Journal, of Wednesday says: We were shown, last evening at the wholesale shoe store of Messrs Geo. R. French & Son, some of the first of the finished products of the Wilmington Cotton Mills. These consisted of a number of pieces of calico, the prettiest and the best that feminine eyes or fingers ever beheld of the kind. These goods are the first of their character, which have as yet, been made south of Baltimore. And as they are the first fruits of the first Wilmington cotton mill, they will be brought here to be disposed of to Wilmington ladies. The pieces contain forty-five and forty-eight yards and will be sold by the piece only at ten cents, which will afford our Wilmington ladies the opportunity of wearing some of the first lot of calicos ever manufactured in the city, or in the State, or in any State south of Baltimore. We presume there are but few of them who will not avail themselves of the opportunity of wearing a Wilmington dress. There is only a case of these goods contained in this lot.

Cannler Hill Outdone.

The Observer says: We see it stated that the imitation fifty cents stamps now in circulation are much smaller than the genuine, and the pale impression of the centre of this note makes it easy to detect when compared with the good note. The twenty-five cent stamps, as a counterfeit, are very suspicious; their general appearance is bad, and the printing very pale when compared with the genuine. There are a great many in circulation. The fifteen cent stamp looks good on the face, but the printing on the right end of the stamp is blurred and very thick. The ten cent stamps are very plentiful and pass very easily, and their general appearance is good; the centre of the stamp on the back its very light. Nickels are very plentifully circulated, but they are easily told on account of the softness of the metal.

A revolution has broken out in Hayti. The revolutionists are in possession of Jacmel.

INSURANCE CO.

We shall do our readers a favor by calling special attention to the value, the usefulness and we may say the great profit, of supporting themselves the present year, with one of the cheapest as well as the most valuable Journals issued on this country. It costs hardly half a cent a day, a sum easily saved, while its practical hints and suggestions will be most likely to bring back that amount many times over. The 500 to 600 beautiful illustrative Engravings are alone worth many times the cost of the paper. We refer to the American Agriculturist, so called because started 35 years ago as a Rural Journal, but now enlarged and improved to suit the wants of every family in Country, Village, and City. It is packed full of good things, useful, reliable, and instructive. Each number contains 44 large (double octavo) pages, beautifully printed. It has much for instructing and pleasing Housekeepers and Children, and Farmers, Mechanics, Merchants—indeed all classes. Its House Plans and improvements, with Engravings and particulars as to cost, and the commonsense directions, are worth more than many costly architectural works. Its constant, persistent, fearless exposure of Humbugs and swindling schemes, is of great value to the whole country and every individual. In short, it is full of good things for everybody, and we advise everybody to take it this year. It will be specially valuable in this Centennial year. Do! Prospectus, which is a hundred fold greater than the majority of other Journals, enables the publishers to supply the American Agriculturist at the very low rate of $1.60 a year, post-paid, or four copies for $5.00. Take our advice and send for it to the publishers, viz. Messrs. Orange Judd Company 245 Broadway, New York City.

A Medical Student Drowned.

F. W. McCorkle, of Newton, N. C., a medical student at the Maryland University, was drowned on Saturday night, by falling in Jones' Falls, at the foot of Plowman street.—Baltimore American, 24th.

The deceased was a son of Col. M. L. McCorkle, a lawyer of some prominence in his section. We understand that the young man's remains passed up the Western North Carolina Railroad, yesterday morning, en route to Newton, for interment.

Old Baldy on His Ear Again!

A person just from Bald Mountain, reports that on Sunday last, there was a renewal of the rumbling which was heard in the mountain about 18 months ago. The rumbling noise was very distinctly heard, and created considerable apprehension in the minds of the people living in the immediate vicinity of the mountain. Our informant states that the religion which Old Baldy almost into the people up there, year before last, has about oozed out, and that they have pretty generally returned to cussing.—Observer

Washington, Jan. 25.—In the case of Pinchback and Eustis, claimats for the senatorial seats from Louisiana, before the Senate Committee on Privileges and elections to-day, a long discussion of the election question occurred. The hour of adjournment having arrived, further consideration of the question was postponed until Friday next.

The House Committee on Appropriations this morning took up the legislative, executive, and judicial appropriation bill. They decided to reduced the salaries of all officers of the government, commencing with their own and extending through all ramification of the public service.

The Committee on Education and Labor this morning considered the bill for reimbursing the college of William and Mary, in Virginia, for its buildings destroyed during the war. President Ewell, of the college, made an interesting statement of its history, and it is probable that the committee will report favorable. The appropriation is not asked as a war claim but based on the policy of sustaining this historical institution. It is understood that a special meeting of the committee will be held to frame a bill, applying the proceeds of the sale of public lands to educational purposes.

Sheffield, Jan. 27.—At the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of Sheffield, held yesterday, the President referred to the startling decline of our American trade, and said, neither Sheffield nor Birmingham would ever have such an American trade as they had formerly. The American and German manufacturers were pushing our goods into a corner, and by introducing machinery for the production of articles of equal quality to those made by hand here, had become successful competitors.

Kansas City, Jan. 27.—On the 17th inst. a party of 200 Apache Indians attacked a squad of 23 soldiers fifty miles south of Santa Fe, New Mexico. The troops were on a buffalo hunt, and being armed with carbines made a very good stand, and fought gallantly. Twenty-three red devils were killed. 3 soldiers were wounded, one fatally. A detachment of troops has been sent from Santa Fe to search for the offending Indians whom they will fully chastise if found.

THD USE OF POTASH.

Sulphate of potash is a very good form of potash for agriculture; it will not liberate the ammonia from manure, which is a desi leratum, the article being a neutral salt. Potash obtained from wood ashes, or even the use of wood ashes, with stable or barnyard manure, will liberate the ammonia unless land plaster (sulphate of lime) or some other compound containing sulphuric or muriatic acid is employed, the former acid being that almost entirely used in agriculture at the present time. Marl is insoluble, will not bear transportation any great distance, and some strata contain injurious properties hurtful to vegetation. The potash of commerce contains sixty per cent. of potassa, but is not, on account of its caustic quality, so available as the sulphate of potash or some other form of this necessary element.

Potash is required in every crop, and is as essential as either phosphoric acid or ammonium in making the crop. The farmer knows that his crops remove potash from the ground, but does he know that twenty-five bushels of wheat per acre removes thirty-five pounds potash.

Fifty bushels of corn per acer removes seventy-four pounds potash.

Thirty bushels of rye per acre removes thirty-two pounds potash.

Fifty bushels of oats per acre removes twenty-eight pounds potash.

Thirty bushels barley per acre removes thirty-two pounds potash.

Thirty bushels of buckwheat per acre removes fifty seve pounds potash.

Two hundred bushels of potatoes per acre removes 195 pounds potash.

These statements could be carried forward to all the crops, but this is sufficient to show that potash is an essential to a large crop.

SALT FOR THE THROAT.

In these days, writes a clergyman, when diseases of the throat are so universally prevalent, and in so many cases fatal we feel it our duty to say a word in behalf of a simple, and what has been with us a most effectual, if not a positive cure for sore throat. For many years past, indeed we may say during the whole of a life of more than forty years, we have been subject to sore throat, and more particularly to a dry, hacking cough, which is not only distressing to ourselves, but to our friends and those with whom we are brought into business contact. Last fall we were introduced to try what virtue there was in common salt. We commenced by using it three times a day morning, noon and night. We dissolved a large tablespoonful of pure salt in about a half a small tumbler full of cold water. With this we gargled the throat most thoroughly just before meal time. The result has been that during the entire winter we were not only free from coughs and colds, but the dry, hacking coughs has entirely disappeared. We attribute these satisfactory results solely to the use of the gargle, and most cordially recommend a trial of it to those who are subject to diseases of the throat. Many persons who have never tried the salt gargle have the impression that it is unpleasant. Such is not the case. On the contrary, it is pleasant, and after a few days' use, no person who loves a nice clean mouth and a first-rate sharpener of the appetite will abandon it.

AN OINTMENT.—The Southern Cultivator considers the information contained in the following, though not new, "worth ten dollars to any farmer," It was furnished that journal by one of its patrons:

Take one part (by weight) rosin, one part beeswax, and four parts good fish or sound lard. Mix and melt together over a slow fire, so as to be sure not to burn the mixture. It makes an ointment that is superior to anything I have ever seen tried for the flesh of either horse or cattle, for either fresh or old sores, and is especially good to remove old, dry scabs. It softens the scab, and it comes off, leaving the skin soft and tough. I was using a horse a cold, muddy winter day, and the next morning I found him with legs swollen and rough, and so stiff that it seemed to be very difficult for him to move. I brushed off the dirt and applied the ointment as soon as I could after I found it out. I made the application morning and evening for two days, and the third day only one application, and the horse was cured. I was compelled to use the horse a little the first day, and after two hours light work he worked as well and free as ever, and I kept on using him every day. The mixture is the best thing I ever used for boots or shoes for out door wear, as it makes spongy leather waterproof and hard leather soft.

VALUABLE IF TRUE.—The Fincastle Herald has been informed that a piece of iron hung on fruit trees will effectually prevent the ravages of frost. The informant states that the night before the freeze in April, he hung several pieces of old iron in two of his peach trees, and the trees were loaded with peaches the yield being not less than seventy five bushels. The fruit of the remaining trees (sixty-five in number) in the orchard was killed. A piece of horse-shoe was hung in a cherry tree in the same orchard, and the yield was abundant, while in three adjacent trees the fruit entirely killed. He says the idea originated with his mother, and that he by her instructions when a boy tried the same thing frequently, and with the same result. This is important, if true, and it will cost but little to test the truth of it.

SLUMBERING PLEASANT.—It is well known that plants sleep at night; but their hours of sleeping are a matter of habit and may be disturbed artificially just as a cock may be waked up to crow at untimely hours by the light of a lantern. A French chemist subjected a Sensitive Plant to an exceedingly trying course of discipline, by completely changing its hours—exposing it to a strong light at night, so as to prevent sleep, and putting it in a dark room during the day. The plant appeared to be much puzzled and disturbed at first. It opened and shut its leaves irregularly, sometimes nodding in spite of the artificial sun that shed its beams at midnight and sometimes waking up, from force of habit, to find the chamber dark in spite of the time of day. Such are the trammels of use and wont. But, after an obvious struggle, the plant submitted to the change, and turned day into night without any apparent ill effects.

To eat well—eat slowly, masticate throughly. To be well nourished—eat moderately of plain food do not overtask the stomach by too much or too rich and indegestable food.

DR. WADE'S

"LIVER CORRECTOR"

AND CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA.

Free from Alcoholic Stimulants.

Among the many discoveries of valuable remedies for Dyspepsia, none stand higher than "WADE'S LIVER CORRECTOR."

Read the Following Testimonials:

Berea P O, Granville N C Mar. 10 '74.

Dr. Wade: Dear Sir—Have been afflicted with Liver Disease 3 or 4 years, which at times amounted to derangement. When in Baltimore last November, I procured one bottle of Liver Corrector. I now consider myself well.

Yours, respectfully,

ISAAC N. DAY, of Day & Meadows.

Prof. Moorman, Emeritus, of Washington University, Md. now Resident Physician, White Sulphur Springs, says:

Dr. Wade's Liver Corrector and "Dyspepsia Cure is one of the very best remedies for Dyspepsia I have ever used."

Dr. Jones, a prominent physician in Virginia, who has prescribed it for two years, says:

"I can find no better remedy for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint than Wade's Liver Corrector."

Col. Goode, a prominent and well known gentleman of Va. says:

I keep it regularly in my family, and would not be without it.

Mr John A McArthur, County Treasurer of Duplin N C says: Wade's Liver Corrector has done me more good, and given me more relief in Dyspepsia, than any medicine I ever took, &c.

Prof. Noel, of College of Physicians and Surgeons of Baltimore, and a distinguished practitioner in that city, prescribe and uses it in his own family and says: It is the best remedy for Dyspepsia with Torpid Liver and Constipation of Bowels I ever knew.

Baltimore Sun says: Dr Wade's Liver Corrector is prescribed by our best physicians, for Dyspepsia and Liver Diseases, and we advise any of our friends suffering with such, to give it a trial.

Catholic Mirror says: We recommend Wade's Liver Corrector to all who are suffering with any chronic disease of Liver. We can speak of its merits as we have tried it.

Dr Walker, a celebrated physician of W Va., pronounces, Wade's Liver Corrector the best remedy extant for Dyspepsia in all its forms.

LIEBIG'S LIQUID BEEF,

EXTRACT OF

AND TONIC INVIGORATOR.

Recommended by the best physicians in England and America for Consumption, Debility, Loss of Appetite, Fever, Ague, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Female and Children maladies.

OPINION OF DR R S STEUART, Prov Md. Insane Hospital, Baltimore, Md.

* * * I can recommend Liebig's Liquid Extract of Beef as the most efficient preparation I have ever met with. It combines the virtues of food and tonic in a remarkable way.

Opinion of DR W M HSTOKES, Physician to Mount Hope Retreat, near Baltimore.

* * * I have great pleasure in adding my testimony to the virtues of Liebig's Liquid Extract of Beef and Tonic Invigorator, as the very best preparation used, and therefore confidently recommend it to the medical profession.
